

Ring Size Guide

The ideal way to find your ring size is by using a ring sizer. But if this is not possible we suggest two ways to measure your ring size at home.

How to measure your ring size at home:

1. By using a size chart

First of all print out the size guide below but before printing be sure it is printed in A4 size and scaled to 100%. To be sure that it is printed correctly measure with a ruler the sample below. It must be exactly 5cm.

How to use the size chart

To find your ring size use a ring that fits perfectly your finger for which you are going to buy the ring. Then put the ring in the circle that fits correctly. It should cover the black circle and you should not see any white space. If the ideal size fits between two sizes choose the larger size.

Please note that these measurements are for thin rings. For wide rings you should choose one size up.

If the size of your finger below the knuckle drastically differs in size from the knuckle itself, measure your knuckle as well. Then choose a size that falls more in the middle of these two measurements.

Tip: the best time of the day to measure the size of your finger is in the evening when your fingers are largest. Avoid measuring your fingers early in the morning or when they are cold and wet as they will be at their smallest.

2. By using a piece of string or paper

Use a piece of string or paper no wider than 1,5cm (0.59inch).

Wrap the string or paper around the base of your finger and then mark where the string or paper overlaps. The length of your paper you measured in millimeters is the circumference of your finger.

After finding this measurement use the conversion chart given below to find the corresponding ring size.

If the size of your finger below the knuckle drastically differs in size from the knuckle itself, measure your knuckle as well. Then, choose a size that falls more in the middle of these two measurements.

Tip: the best time of the day to measure the size of your finger is in the evening when your fingers are largest. Avoid measuring your fingers early in the morning or when they are cold or wet as they will be at their smallest.
